I remember Allan Bloom, Part 2

Author : Ellis Washington

Date : June 21, 2011

> The world is a dangerous place to live not because of the people who are evil, but because of the people who don't do anything about it.
> ~ Albert Einstein

Einstein's aphorism above in an utterly singular manner extrapolates why professor Allan Bloom had to write his magnum opus, "The Closing of the American Mind," at the critical time in history he did. Bloom exposed the tragedy that the social/political crisis of 20th century America was in reality an intellectual crisis in large part caused by the contemporary university failing its students. Bloom's original prophecy has since metastasized into a universal crisis of morality approaching biblical proportions.
